

MEDICAID MATTERS IN RHODE ISLAND 2018

Rhode Island's Medicaid Program serves approximately one in three Rhode Islanders, providing access to primary and preventive health care services for children, parents, adults, seniors and people with disabilities. Medicaid is the primary funder for long-term care services that children and adults with significant disabilities and seniors need to live safely at home or in a facility. Medicaid brings significant federal funds to the state, helping to support the health care sector and the state's economy.

Rhode Island's Medicaid Program by Population

State Medicaid funds, intensified with federal dollars, generate economic activity, including jobs, income and state tax revenue

Source: KFF, The Role of Medicaid in State Economies: A Look at the Research, Jan. 2009

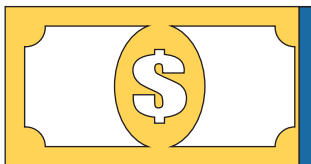

Rate of Federal Cost-sharing (FMAP) Varies by Population

Regular FMAP
51.3% Federal
48.7% State

CHIP FMAP
88.9% Federal
11.1% State

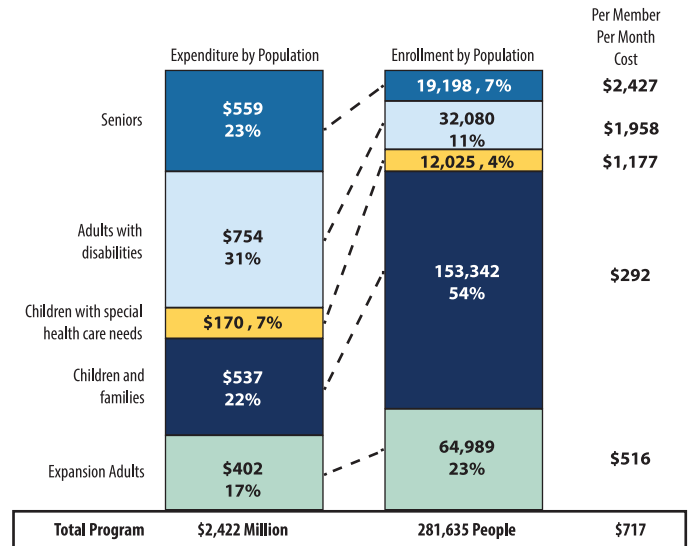

Expansion FMAP
94.5% Federal
5.5% State

State Fiscal Year 2018 FMAPs

This means that for the 65,000 "expansion adults", for every dollar invested by the state, Rhode Island receives $17. For the 27,000 CHIP-eligible children and adults, a dollar investment yields $8 and for all other Medicaid populations, a dollar investment brings in an equal amount in federal funds.

Medicaid Spending Varies by Population

Source: EOHS, RI Medicaid Expenditure Report SFY 2016, May 2017. Spending for adults with disabilities and seniors includes costs for long term services and supports. (SFY 2016 - $ Millions)

MEDICAID MATTERS TO ME BECAUSE...

"It gives me the ability to live in my community and provides the assistance I need to be independent."

Vincent Dejesus

"It has contributed to my son's ability to speak and to become a contributor in our community."

Cristina Amedeo

"It was there for me and for my daughter during the important months of my pregnancy and her first months of life. It helped keep us healthy"

Susannah Cotter

Medicaid Benefits People in Every City and Town and Schools Benefit from Federal Medicaid Funds

* Numbers are Medicaid-Enrolled Residents

