

Affordable Health Insurance for Immigrants

Rhode Islanders have a range of options for affordable health insurance coverage as a result of the federal Affordable Care Act. People can compare health insurance plans and enroll in a plan that meets their needs and budgets through HealthSource RI, the state’s health insurance marketplace. By submitting an application for coverage at HealthSource RI, people can find out what type of affordable insurance is available to them.

- Many low-income Rhode Islanders may be eligible for no-cost health coverage through the Rlte Care/Medicaid program, including single adults, children, parents and pregnant women. Because Rlte Care/Medicaid income limits are higher for children than for parents, some children may have Rlte Care coverage while their parents buy coverage through HealthSource RI.
- People with income above the Rlte Care/Medicaid limits may be eligible for tax credits to help purchase health insurance when they buy coverage through HealthSource RI.
- Depending on their status, immigrants may be eligible for Rlte Care/Medicaid and/or tax credits through HealthSource RI if they meet income and other eligibility requirements.

² Lawful Permanent Residents ("LPR") are individuals who have been admitted for permanent residence in the U.S. and will be able to become U.S. citizens. LPRs have a "green card."

³ Also includes Cuban/Haitian entrants, Amerasian immigrants, Iraqi or Afghan special immigrants and individuals granted withholding of deportation or removal.

⁴ Lawfully present individuals have not been admitted to live in the U.S. on a permanent basis but have a status that allows them to live here. This includes, for example, a child of a citizen who is pending adjustment of status, individuals with temporary protected status (from El Salvador, Haiti, Honduras, Nicaragua, Somalia, Sudan, South Sudan and Syria), deferred enforced departure (Liberia). However, young non-citizens with the status of Deferred Action for Childhood Arrivals (DACA) are not eligible for Rlte Care/Medicaid or to buy coverage through HealthSource RI.

What to Know When You Apply

- Only family members who are seeking health coverage for themselves need to provide information about their immigration status. People who do not have a social security number will not be required to provide one in the application. Parents who are not eligible because of lack of status can apply for their eligible children.
- Information provided in the application will only be used to make an eligibility decision for health insurance coverage and will be kept confidential.
- Receipt of Rlte Care/Medicaid or tax credits to pay for insurance purchased through HealthSource RI (HSRI) will not affect a lawful permanent resident's ability to become a U.S. citizen.
- Receipt of coverage purchased through HSRI and use of tax credits will not affect an immigrant's status or ability to become a lawful permanent resident. Receipt of Medicaid by a pregnant woman or youth under age 21 also will not affect an immigrant's status or ability to become a lawful permanent resident.⁶

⁵ Under age 65 and not disabled.

⁶ Receipt of Medicaid for long-term care in a nursing home can affect one's ability to become a lawful permanent resident, because this benefit is considered in the 'public charge' determination that is made by immigration authorities in considering a petition for LPR status. Under new public charge rules, receipt of Medicaid by adults other than pregnant women and youth under age 21 can also be considered in the public charge determination. For more information about 'public charge', see <http://www.economicprogressri.org/immigrant-issues>. Call Dorcas International, 784-8600 if you have concerns about the impact on your status.
